

Steepletop

Steepletop's 1,230 acres make it the Berkshire Natural Resources Council's largest reserve. Its five miles of marked and maintained trails plus three miles of unmaintained woods roads, all on easy grades, are ideal for hiking, birdwatching, hunting, snowshoeing and cross-country skiing. The reserve's woods range from an unusual patch of seemingly old-growth forest to quite young forest, managed for wildlife requiring that habitat.

Directions: Located off New Marlborough/ Monterey Road. Turn into the steep, inclining driveway marked "648". Bear right into our gravel parking lot.

TRAIL DESCRIPTION

Louise Lane: (North Loop): 2.2 miles, round-trip
Edie's Way: (South Loop): 2.2 miles, round-trip
Difficulty: Easy (gentle grades, smooth footing)

Louise Lane and Edie's Way are well blazed trails that take visitors past extensive stone walls, near foundations and over brook crossings. While the trails are not groomed for winter skiing, they and the woods roads are often wide enough for skating cross-country skiers as well as those using the classic technique. Winter visitors to the reserve can follow the tracks of many different species.

NATURAL HISTORY

The varied habitats and sheer size of the reserve and contiguous protected areas attract a wide range of wildlife. Birders can look for, among others, American woodcocks. Otter, beaver, and coyotes also inhabit the preserve. Within the wooded area's mix of conifers and hardwoods, two queens of the New England forest—white pines and black cherries—often stand next to each other in full growth. Different varieties of birch and maple as well as oaks, beech and hemlock are also abundant. Look for cattails and wild cranberry in the wet areas.
